Subject: RE: [IODA #556131] INFRINGEMENT of Our Copyrights according: DIGITAL MILLENNIUM COPYRIGHT ACT OF 1998.
Date: Tuesday, March 23, 2010 3:29:41 AM

Dear Ms. Espinel,

I am music professional: songwriter / producer / publisher. The U.S. government can enforce piracy and infringement by providing legal assistance to financially strapped creators such as myself, I have been a member of ASCAP and Harry Fox Agency for over twenty years, I have reported a number of copyright violations to both agencies over the years to no avail, especially when the culprit is a major company, I can't afford the legal service to sue certain violators, the government could provide help with civil law enforcement in-order to better protect the rights of creative Americans.

To make a long story short, I have a current issue (Details Below) that I submitted to the FBI Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) on February 15, 2010 via internet, because all of my music is digital distributed, and they have not responded to my complaint.

We have been investigating and researching our song catalog on iTunes, and we notice that VP Music Group, Inc and Greensleeves Records, Ltd is infringing on our copyrights: client Desmond Ballentine aka Ninja Man; and Carlton E. Grant aka Spragga Benz, according to the DIGITAL MILLENNIUM COPYRIGHT ACT OF 1998.

Our initial investigation of client Desmond Ballentine aka Ninja Man: songs "Number One" title was changed from original to an alternative title "Test the High Power" on iTunes; and listed catalog on Harry Fox Agency Songfile system as original title ("Number One") under Publisher Represented By HFA: UNIVERSAL – POLYGRAM INTERNATIONAL PUB INC. We need your assistance with this matter, please feel free to email or call me directly.

Also investigation of our song catalog on iTunes reference our client Carlton E. Grant aka Spragga Benz album "Fully Loaded" album release is also available under VP Music Group, Inc, which is a copyright violation of both iTunes and VP Music Group, Inc.

Sincerely,

Dennis H. Allen: Owner - Centron Music, Inc Letter Attached :(format) Microsoft Word

CASES I CAN NOT PURSUE BECAUSE OF FINANCIAL ISSUES:

Attention: Victoria K. Hall

My name is Dennis Allen owner of Centron Music, Inc (ASCAP)(HFA). After review (listening) of Beyoncé Knowles song "Upgrade U", we believe that Beyoncé Knowles infringed on our copyrights of song "Look Good" performed by the artist Johnny P. We also have another case we want to pursue against Method Man from the group Wu-Tang Clan, who infringed on the lyrics of our writer client Desmond Ballentine aka Ninja Man, in one is songs, I can't remember title of the song, but I will get track asap.
